Analyst and Investor event

Computacenter plc ("Computacenter"), the independent provider of IT infrastructure services and solutions, today announces that it will be holding an Analyst and Investor event at its technology and logistics centre in Hatfield.

The event will start with a demonstration of how Computacenter provides remote support for major customers. This will be followed by a series of presentations by the operational management team. The presentations will cover a number of topics including progress in Germany, insight into the workings of the Group Operating Model and plans for France.

No material new trading or financial information will be disclosed.
