Computacenter no longer interested in making an offer for Compel

On 1 June 2000 the Board of Computacenter plc ("Computacenter") stated that it had approached the Board of Compel Group plc ("Compel") with a conditional proposal to acquire the whole of Compel.

Computacenter is now confirming that it is no longer interested in making an offer for Compel.

HSBC Investment Bank plc ("HSBC"), which is regulated in the United Kingdom by The Securities and Futures Authority, is acting for Computacenter plc and no one else in connection with the matter referred to in this announcement and will not be responsible to anyone other than Computacenter plc for providing the protections afforded to customers of HSBC, nor for providing advice in relation to the matter referred to in this announcement.
